

All's well that ends well

Adrian:

The topic of the play was very creative and ironic. The actors acted very well and their pronunciation was very clear. The discipline of the viewers was also good. In my opinion the preparation of the actors was well done. I was surprised in a positive way by the way, because my expectations weren't very high. I expected to see a boring trivial love story but it was more than that. The way of speaking , the voice volume and the acting in generell were the things that surprised me the most. I also appreciate that they included the audience.

All in all it was a very good play and I can recommend watching the performances of the White Horse Theatre! Honestly I can't say anything negative.

I hope they come back next year. :)

Sunny:

I think the topic was great and not even a little bit boring. The actors did a very good job and it seemed like they were the people they played. The pros were very good. I understood everything an I began to like the British accent. The actors were always concentrated. I really liked watching and listening to English plays, because the language sounded very good and they helped to understand and learn the English language even without writing anything. My feeling was that one girl was a bit too quiet and in my opinion the story was a little bit oldschool.

Sofie B.:

The topic was a great idea. I really liked the actors because their way of speaking was very clear and fine B.:I understood a lot. I also think that they had a very good discipline and I really respect them because they had to learn so much text. The preparation I liked also. But I have to say that the woman who played Diana spoke in a really high way. I also think the next time they could work with more materials.

All in all I liked the theatre and I can recommend it to everyone who wants to learn English.

Jannik:

I think the topic was well chosen and very interesting. The actors played very well and they spoke very clearly and loudly, so I could understand everything. There was a relaxed and silent atmosphere. The actors didn't laugh in the play and in general the students were silent, too. The decoration was ok but a little bit boring. It would be better if there were more materials (e.g. furniture), but the costumes were very good. In general it was a really good play and I enjoyed it.
